HIROHITO KNEW ABOUT ATTACK, COUSIN STATES

Higashi-Kuni Claims Mikado Did Not Sign Declaration Of War Until Dec. 8

THOUGHT U. S. WARNED

Emperor 'Understood' War Declaration To Be Made Before Pearl Harbor

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni said today that Emperor Hirohito knew in advance of the Japanese plan to attack Pearl Harbor, but had "understood" a formal declaration of war would be transmitted to the United States before the raid began.

Higashi-Kuni, retiring premier and cousin of Hirohito, revealed that the emperor did not sign the imperial rescript formalizing the declaration of war until 11:30 a. m. Dec. 8, 1941 Tokyo time—eight hours after the first bombs fell on Pearl Harbor.

"Although his majesty had heard from the naval chief of staff of the general outline of the operations, he had not been informed of the details of their execution," Higashi-Kuni said.

"Furthermore, it was his majesty's understanding that in executing operations, the government of the United States would be duly notified prior to armed action."

Higashi-Kuni's version of the emperor's position in connection with the Pearl Harbor attack was included in a series of written replies to questions originally submitted to the retiring premier at a press conference several weeks ago.

In sending the replies to Brig. Gen. Le Grande Diller, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's press relations officer, Higashi-Kuni expressed deep regret that he was unable to meet newsmen again last week as planned "owing to the extreme pressure of state duties."

The replies were received at a time when wide debate was going on both among newsmen and among Allied authorities at home over whether Hirohito should be permitted to retain his throne or should be tried as a war criminal for his part in Japanese aggression.

Two of the three questions to which Higashi-Kuni replied related to Hirohito and Pearl Harbor. The first was whether the emperor knew in advance of the Pearl Harbor attack and the second, when the emperor had signed the imperial rescript.

In reply to the third question, Higashi-Kuni said the Japanese were investigating "with the utmost effort" reports of mistreatment of Allied war prisoners and civilian internees.

"Unfortunately," he admitted, "a considerable number of offenses were committed. Although due to the general confusion following the termination of the war and the interruption of communication."

Schwellenbach Staging One-Man Fight To Steer Nation Through Crisis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach was staging virtually a one-man battle today to steer the country through the worst labor crisis since 1941.

With other federal labor agencies occupied with troubles of their own, Schwellenbach was pressing almost single-handedly for settlement of the spreading coal strike, clarification of the administration's wage price policy and disposition of other disputes threatening orderly reconversion.

His job was complicated by two important factors. One was the refusal of the war labor board to handle disputed wage cases unless the parties agree in advance to abide by its decisions. The second was the fact that the national labor relations board may have to put aside most of its other work to conduct more than 300 strike votes in the next 30 days.

Schwellenbach arranged to meet again today with soft coal producers and President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers for further exploration of the issue which has made 160,000 miners idle and forced emergency controls over coal shipments. With some steel mills already forced to curtail operation, the coal strike is regarded as the greatest single danger to a quick return to a high (Continued on Page Two)

PLUTO AND MICE GUARDED ATOM BOMB WORKERS

OAK RIDGE, TENN., Oct. 8.—Pluto, Betty-Snoop and Cutie-Pie, guarded atomic bomb workers here from the dangers of deadly radio-active elements.

Plant officials yesterday revealed these nicknames for a trio of sensitive mechanical instruments placed at certain points to detect injurious rays if any should escape into the air. Rabbits and mice were also used, officials said, and their deaths would have forewarned workers had the mechanical instruments failed. There was not a single casualty or near casualty during the production of the first bomb, the officials added. A specialized group working under Dr. Robert S. Stone, eminent radiologist and head of the X-ray department of the University of California, was credited with the plant's safety record, the officials said.

Executions Took Place On Formosa June 19; Names Being Withheld

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8.—The Japanese executed 14 American airmen at Formosa only two months before Japan surrendered and while Tokyo was seeking peace terms from the Allies, it was revealed today.

Fourteen urns containing the ashes of the fliers arrived by plane in Shanghai today from Formosa. Inscriptions on the urns and records accompanying them confirmed the executions and identity of the fliers beyond doubt.

The records showed that the fliers were put to death last June 19. Their names were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

(Raids on Formosa were carried out largely by fliers of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's far eastern air forces from Philippines bases.)

Also aboard the plane from Formosa were the ashes of a 15th American flier who was killed in a plane crash.

The executions were the second of American airmen to be confirmed here within the past month.

2,000,000 JAPS DEMOBILIZED BY AMERICAN ARMY

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—Nearly 2,000,000 Japanese soldiers had laid down their arms and returned to their homes by October 1, the Allied Supreme Command announced today.

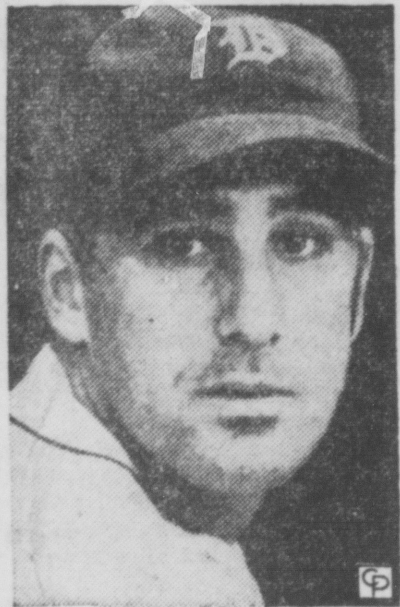

A spokesman said American authorities were "completely satisfied" with the progress of the demobilization, which is scheduled to be completed by the middle of this month.

The demobilization was proceeding smoothly even despite the lack of communications and transport facilities in some areas, the spokesman said.

Meantime, nearly 20,000 American troops from the 10th Corps of the Sixth Army yesterday began occupation of atom-bombed Hiroshima, the wrecked Kure naval base on the inland sea, and nearby Kaifu.

The 25th Division, under the First Corps, landed at former aircraft manufacturing center of Nagoya yesterday after a delay caused by typhoons.

Ohio Political Tension Eases With Naming Of Commerce Head

COLUMBUS, Oct. 8.—Ohio political tension eased today with the appointment of James W. Huffman, Ohio state commerce director, to the U. S. Senate to fill the unexpired term of newly appointed associate supreme court justice Harold H. Burton.

News of Huffman's boost to Ohio's junior senate seat was no great surprise. But the Ohio congressional team had limped along one short for a week while political circles buzzed over Gov. Frank J. Lausche's delay in naming someone to the coveted post.

Huffman, a Democrat, topped a list of possible choices discussed by state political observers and his chances blossomed after Gov. James W. Cox and Maj. Gen. Curtis Le May turned down the senate post.

Strikes At A Glance

By United Press
Labor disputes kept 429,000 workers off their jobs today as the government sought to end strikes hampering reconversion.

Late developments included: Coal—Labor Secretary Schwellenbach and United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis met again today at Washington, D. C., in an attempt to send 160,000 soft coal miners back to pits. Production losses are estimated at 1,000,000 tons a day.

Oil—6,000 oil workers returning to production of gasoline and fuel oil in northern Indiana plants under Navy supervision after seizure of 52 refineries by the government. This was the last big refinery area to resume following a nationwide strike of 36,000 for 30 per cent more wages.

Autos—Some 50,000 Ford Motor co. workers were back turning out 1946 model Ford cars for the first time in a month. Hudson Motor Car co. strike ended, returning 6,000 to their jobs.

Communications—250,000 telephone workers waited the decision of the national labor relations board on their demand that a trial examiner's recommendation for disbandment of one union be ignored. The phone workers last week cut off some service for four hours and authorized petitioning for a strike vote unless the demand is met.

Steel—Contract disputes kept 16,000 CIO steel workers idle in eastern mills. Transportation—Bus travel in seven western states with 2,700 Greyhound drivers and employees idle.

UMW Chief Refuses To Send Men Back To Pits; Talks Resume In Capital

By United Press

Production of reconversion—vital petroleum neared normal and the tangled Detroit labor picture cleared today but strikes in the nation's soft coal fields still challenged government ingenuity.

A work stoppage of five weeks ended yesterday at the Hudson Motor Car co., Detroit, although the country's strike roll still bore the names of 429,000 idle workers.

New model cars once again began to roll off Ford Motor Co. assembly lines, the first time in almost a month.

The last of major refining areas, in which 36,000 oil workers halted gasoline and petroleum production two and one-half weeks, was scheduled to resume operations today under Navy supervision. This was in the vast Calumet river basin of northern Indiana, where the CIO's demand for a 30-per cent pay boost started the mushrooming strikes.

A mounting load of wage-price disputes caused breakdown last night in Washington of negotiation efforts in the spreading soft coal strike, threatening the nation's fuel supply at the onset of Winter.

Labor Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach meets again today with United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis to make a further attempt to settle a labor issue which has idled 160,000 miners and brought government control over bituminous shipments.

Lewis wants bargaining rights for mine supervisory employees, a condition of labor peace to which the operators have turned thumbs down. The operators refuse to negotiate until the strikers return to their jobs.

The UMW chief declined to order the men back to the pits. Meantime, President Richard T. Leonard of the United Auto Workers union (CIO) Ford department, announced the union would file a petition today for a strike vote in all Ford plants. He said this action would be taken unless the Ford company meets the 30-per cent wage increase demand.

Ford plants were going into production with the ending last week of a strike at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co., Detroit automakers' supplier.

On other labor fronts: 1—President Truman said he would name a three-man investigatory board in a wage dispute involving the Railway Express Agency and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL). (Continued on Page Two)

JEWS AND ARABS BOTH STRIKING IN PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, Oct. 8.—The entire Palestine police force was alerted today as the Jewish population started a country-wide work stoppage while Arab groups at Acre called a general strike for Tuesday to protest Jewish immigration into the Holy Land.

A procession of 100,000 Jews was expected to march through the streets of Tel Aviv today, in protest against British restrictions on Jewish immigration. Throughout Palestine, Jews began the day with prayers at all synagogues.

Jewish circles meanwhile were bitter over the Kfar Glati incident in which several Jewish were wounded when a group of 70 attempted illegally to enter Palestine from Syria.

The Jews said that the British were massing large bodies of troops, as well as heavy bombers, divebombers and paratroop units. These, the Jews said, were "more than enough to suppress any local uprising" and should have made it unnecessary to use Arab-Trans-Jordan police to suppress illegal immigration.

Claude Passeau and Virgil Trucks Match Mound Ability Before Overflow Crowd In Wrigley Field At Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Claude Passeau for Chicago and Virgil "Fire" Trucks for Detroit were the starting pitchers in the crucial sixth game in the 1945 World Championship Series.

A crowd of well over 40,000 was present. The skies above were bright and sunny, but the temperature was cold. Spectators were wrapped warmly to cope with the below-40 temperature and cold winds, blowing from behind third base.

Detroit was out to make it, the final game of the 1945 series, but to do so will have to overcome the careful pitching of Passeau who tied the pitching record of the World Series with a one-hitter Friday, but the Cubs had real pitching from fast-baller Trucks, out of the Navy only a week, but in plenty good form as shown by his winning pitching in the second game.

Nipponese Loot Believed Stored In Building; New Cabinet Formed

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—Armed guards of the First cavalry division tonight surrounded the Japanese navy ministry after U. S. officials said hoards of loot from Japan's lost empire might be stored in official government buildings.

A terse announcement said merely U. S. officials had learned that "precious metal," presumably stolen in Japan's years of military conquest, was in the navy ministry building.

It was reliably reported that more troops may be placed shortly at other Japanese buildings to guard similar hoards.

While the amount of treasure involved was not immediately disclosed, it was assumed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command had discovered evidence of the storage places in records of Japanese institutions ordered seized more than a week ago.

Meanwhile, Premier Designate Baron Kijuro Shidehara completed his "stop gap" cabinet of liberals whose average age is 61. Members will take office tomorrow and will serve until next year's elections.

Selection of the cabinet met with mixed reaction from the Japanese. Many political observers took the point of view of the newspaper Asahi which pointed out that the 73-year-old Shidehara and his appointees "belong to the category of old-timers." However, it was stressed in other quarters that the cabinet lineup was considerably more liberal than the outgoing cabinet of Prince Higashi-Kuni and was the "best possible" when restrictions against including (Continued on Page Two)

WOMEN STUDENTS HELD IN JAIL BY ARGENTINES

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 8.—Police admitted today that 142 women students from 18 to 25 years old were being detained for participating in university demonstrations protesting the military government's recent actions.

The women were being held at San Miguel asylum, from which prostitutes were reported freed Saturday in order to make room for the students.

Reports of a clash between the military government and the supreme court circulated in the Argentine capital today.

Seriousness of the court-government undercover struggle was reflected in unofficial reports that authorities were studying the possibility of retiring supreme court members on a pension although none of the judges had made such a request.

The court had ordered the release of Federal Judge Rodolfo Barraco Marmol of Cordoba, who last week was confined in the national prison on a charge of having freed suspects in a revolution attempt. The arrest was unprecedented in Argentine history.

EXPECT SENATE WILL APPROVE BYRNES REPORT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes today tells his story of the failure of the London foreign ministers conference to a sympathetic audience—the senate foreign relations committee.

Committee members generally are expected to agree that Byrnes pursued the correct course and to give him a "vote of confidence."

Most of the details of the conference and the rocks upon which it foundered have been made public officially. Byrnes and his Republican adviser, John Foster Dulles, have spelled out at length the dismal story as well as the reasons for the U. S. position.

The British position, similar to the American, will be outlined in London tomorrow by British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin before the house of commons. A London dispatch said his report would be brief because Byrnes' radio address on the conference "sufficiently indicates the British position."

Russian newspapers said Byrnes' speech "persistently presented the Soviet position as wrong." They carried summaries saying that many American publications "admit that the Soviet Union's position is logical."

DOCTOR KILLS SELF FOLLOWING ARREST OF WIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The bodies of Dr. John H. Mansfeldt, 47, and Mrs. Vada Martin, the young nurse whom his wife killed in trying to force an admission of stolen love, awaited burial today. He committed suicide rather than face the shame of his wife's action.

Mrs. Annie Irene Mansfeldt, 45, paced the floor of her room in the psychopathic ward of the San Francisco hospital where she was taken from the city jail. Her red hair was disheveled and her eyes were rimmed from weeping.

"I killed him," she cried. "I killed my husband." Mrs. Mansfeldt was charged with murder for the fatal shooting last Thursday of the 36-year-old nurse who denied with her dying breath that she had a love affair with Dr. Mansfeldt.

Emperor 'Understood' War Declaration To Be Made Before Pearl Harbor

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni said today that Emperor Hirohito knew in advance of the Japanese plan to attack Pearl Harbor, but had "understood" a formal declaration of war would be transmitted to the United States before the raid began.

Higashi-Kuni, retiring premier and cousin of Hirohito, revealed that the emperor did not sign the imperial rescript formalizing the declaration of war until 11:30 a. m. Dec. 8, 1941 Tokyo time—eight hours after the first bombs fell on Pearl Harbor.

"Furthermore, it was his majesty's understanding that in executing operations, the government of the United States would be duly notified prior to armed action."

Higashi-Kuni's version of the emperor's position in connection with the Pearl Harbor attack was included in a series of written replies to questions originally submitted to the retiring premier at a press conference several weeks ago.

In sending the replies to Brig. Gen. Le Grande Diller, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's press relations officer, Higashi-Kuni expressed deep regret that he was unable to meet newsmen again last week as planned "owing to the extreme pressure of state duties."

The replies were received at a time when wide debate was going on both among newsmen and among Allied authorities at home over whether Hirohito should be permitted to retain his throne or should be tried as a war criminal for his part in Japanese aggression.

Two of the three questions to which Higashi-Kuni replied related to Hirohito and Pearl Harbor. The first was whether the emperor knew in advance of the Pearl Harbor attack and the second, when the emperor had signed the imperial rescript.

In reply to the third question, Higashi-Kuni said the Japanese were investigating "with the utmost effort" reports of mistreatment of Allied war prisoners and civilian internees.

"Unfortunately," he admitted, "a considerable number of offenses were committed. Although due to the general confusion following the termination of the war and the interruption of communication—

A work stoppage of five weeks ended yesterday at the Hudson Motor Car co., Detroit, although the country's strike roll still bore the names of 429,000 idle workers.

New model cars once again began to roll off Ford Motor Co. assembly lines, the first time in almost a month.

The last of major refining areas, in which 36,000 oil workers halted gasoline and petroleum production two and one-half weeks, was scheduled to resume operations today under Navy supervision.

This was in the vast Calumet river basin of northern Indiana, where the CIO's demand for a 30-per cent pay boost started the mushrooming strikes.

A mounting loss of wage-price disputes caused breakdown last night in Washington of negotiation efforts in the spreading soft coal strike, threatening the nation's fuel supply at the onset of winter.

Labor Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach meets again today with United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis to make a further attempt to settle a labor issue which has idled 160,000 miners and brought government control over bituminous shipments.

Lewis wants bargaining rights for mine supervisory employees, a condition of labor peace to which the operators have turned thumbs down. The operators refuse to negotiate until the strikers return to their jobs.

The UMW chief declined to order the men back to the pits.

Meantime, President Richard T. Leonard of the United Auto Workers union (CIO) Ford department, announced the union would file a petition today for a strike vote in all Ford plants. He said this action would be taken unless the Ford company meets the 30-per cent wage increase demand.

Ford plants were going into production with the ending last week of a strike at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co., Detroit automakers' supplier.

On other labor fronts: 1—President Truman said he would name a three-man investigatory board in a wage dispute involving the Railway Express Agency and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL).

JEWES AND ARABS BOTH STRIKING IN PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, Oct. 8.—The entire Palestine police force was alerted today as the Jewish population started a country-wide work stoppage while Arab groups at Acre called a general strike for Tuesday to protest Jewish immigration into the Holy Land.

A procession of 100,000 Jews was expected to march through the streets of Tel Aviv today, in protest against British restrictions on Jewish immigration. Throughout Palestine, Jews began the day with prayers at all synagogues.

Jewish circles meanwhile were bitter over the Kfar Giladi incident in which several Jewish were wounded when a group of 70 attempted illegally to enter Palestine from Syria.

The Jews said that the British were massing large bodies of troops, as well as heavy bombers, divebombers and paratroop units. These, the Jews said, were "more than enough to suppress any local uprising" and should have made it unnecessary to use Arab-Transjordan police to suppress illegal immigration.

Claude Passeau and Virgil Trucks Match Mound Ability Before Overflow Crowd In Wrigley Field At Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Claude Passeau for Chicago and Virgil "Fire" Trucks for Detroit were the starting pitchers in the crucial sixth game in the 1945 World Championship Series.

A crowd of well over 40,000 was present. The skies above were bright and sunny, but the temperature was cold. Spectators were wrapped warmly to cope with the below-40 temperature and cold winds, blowing from behind third base.

Detroit was out to make it the final game of the 1945 series, but to do so will have to overcome the careful pitching of Passeau who tied the pitching record of the World Series with a one-hitter

Nipponese Loot Believed Stored In Building; New Cabinet Formed

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—Armed guards of the First cavalry division tonight surrounded the Japanese navy ministry after U. S. officials said hoards of loot from Japan's lost empire might be stored in official government buildings.

A terse announcement said merely U. S. officials had learned that "precious metal," presumably stolen in Japan's years of military conquest, was in the navy ministry building.

It was reliably reported that more troops may be placed shortly at other Japanese buildings to guard similar hoards.

While the amount of treasure involved was not immediately disclosed, it was assumed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command had discovered evidence of the storage places in records of Japanese institutions ordered seized more than a week ago.

Meanwhile, Premier Designate Baron Kijuro Shidehara completed his "stop gap" cabinet of liberals whose average age is 61. Members will take office tomorrow and will serve until next year's elections.

Selection of the cabinet met with mixed reaction from the Japanese. Many political observers took the point of view of the newspaper Asahi which pointed out that the 73-year-old Shidehara and his appointees "belong to the category of old-timers." However, it was stressed in other quarters that the cabinet lineup was considerably more liberal than the outgoing cabinet of Prince Higashi-Kuni and was the "best possible when restrictions against including

WOMEN STUDENTS HELD IN JAIL BY ARGENTINES

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 8.—Police admitted today that 142 women students from 18 to 25 years old were being detained for participating in university demonstrations protesting the military government's recent actions.

The women were being held at San Miguel asylum, from which prostitutes were reported freed Saturday in order to make room for the students.

Reports of a clash between the military government and the supreme court circulated in the Argentine capital today.

Seriousness of the court-government undercover struggle was reflected in unofficial reports that authorities were studying the possibility of retiring supreme court members on a pension although none of the judges had made such a request.

The court had ordered the release of Federal Judge Rodolfo Barraco Marmol of Cordoba, who last week was confined in the national prison on a charge of having freed suspects in a revolution attempt. The arrest was unprecedented in Argentine history.

EXPECT SENATE WILL APPROVE BYRNES REPORT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes today tells his story of the failure of the London foreign ministers conference to a sympathetic audience—the senate foreign relations committee.

Committee members generally are expected to agree that Byrnes pursued the correct course and to give him a "vote of confidence."

Most of the details of the conference and the rocks upon which it foundered have been made public officially. Byrnes and his Republican adviser, John Foster Dulles, have spelled out at length the dismal story as well as the reasons for the U. S. position.

The British position, similar to the American, will be outlined in London tomorrow by British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin before the house of commons. A London dispatch said his report would be brief because Byrnes' radio address on the conference "sufficiently indicates the British position."

Russian newspapers said Byrnes' speech "persistently presented the Soviet position as wrong." They carried summaries saying that many American publications "admit that the Soviet Union's position is logical."

DOCTOR KILLS SELF FOLLOWING ARREST OF WIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The bodies of Dr. John H. Mansfeldt, 47, and Mrs. Vada Martin, the young nurse whom his wife killed in trying to force an admission of stolen love, awaited burial today. He committed suicide rather than face the shame of his wife's action.

Mrs. Annie Irene Mansfeldt, 45, paced the floor of her room in the psychopathic ward of the San Francisco hospital where she was taken from the city jail. Her red hair was disheveled and her eyes were rimmed from weeping.

"I killed him," she cried. "I killed my husband."

Mrs. Mansfeldt was charged with murder for the fatal shooting last Thursday of the 36-year-old nurse who denied with her dying breath that she had a love affair with Dr. Mansfeldt.

JAMES HUFFMAN IS NEW SENATOR

Lausche and often has been referred to during this administration as "assistant governor."

Lausche, in sizing up Huffman's qualifications for the senatorial job, predicted that the new senator would make a strong bid for the United States to take on the responsibilities of keeping world peace.

He also forecast that Huffman would keep a sharp eye open for economy in government spending. The new senator is said to favor development of the St. Lawrence seaway to give Ohio a direct link with ocean commerce.

"I believe that in his decision he will strive to do that which is best for the people and that he will never be swayed by the demands of selfish interests," Lausche said.

The appointment of Huffman to the senate left a wide open road for former Gov. John W. Bricker to run for the seat in 1946 without stirring up trouble in Ohio Republican ranks.

Bricker's future has been snarled up in Ohio state politics. He squelched reports he would oppose Burton in the 1946 primaries, saying party harmony was more important than his own ambitions. But now he has a clear field and the senate seat is Bricker's most logical ticket back onto the 1948 presidential train.

Huffman stepped in as state commerce director when the present administration followed Lausche in at the first of the year.

He ran against Lausche in the Democratic gubernatorial primaries in May, 1944, but switched his support to Lausche when he lost. Huffman had resigned as district OPA attorney in November, 1943, just before he hung out his governor-bound intentions.

Huffman, a World War I machine gun officer who later served with the Rhineland Army of Occupation, is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university. He attended Ohio State university and received his law degree from the University of Chicago in 1922.

After a year with a Chicago law firm and as assistant attorney general of Illinois, Huffman headed for Columbus as executive secretary to Governor Donahay.

Next step up was his appointment to the Ohio Public Utilities Commission. In 1929 the corporation-trained lawyer began a private law practice and until 1941, when he was appointed district OPA attorney, Huffman fought utility cases for Cleveland, Columbus and other Ohio cities through the country's highest courts.

Huffman married Margaret Donahay in 1925. They have two children, Peggy, 18, and Jimmy, 10.

level production of civilian goods. Lewis is demanding UMW recognition for 28,000 to 50,000 supervisory employees.

The operators, like the oil companies last week, have urged Schwollenbach to follow the WLB's wartime policy by insisting that strikers return to their jobs before discussing the merits of a dispute. The secretary disregarded the oil companies' request but said he would take a position after hearing both parties.

Lewis was believed relying on a recommendation by former secretary of labor Frances Perkins to win his fight with the coal operators. During 1945 wage negotiations he accepted her proposal that the issue of bargaining rights for supervisory mine employees be determined by the NLRB. The operators refused and Lewis dropped his demands. But four days after the contract was signed, he notified the producers that he would seek a determination of the issue by the NLRB.

A case involving the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. is now on the way through NLRB procedures but a decision is still several months off. Lewis is confident that the board's ruling last February—that foremen may organize and companies must deal with them—will be applied to his case.

Aside from coal the NLRB also holds the answer to disputes which caused the Hollywood movie studio strike and the threatened strike in the telephone and California food processing industries.

Schwollenbach plans to persuade the WLB this week to make a wage dispute case in which the raise demanded would require price relief. He hopes that a quick decision may be forthcoming to provide guideposts for the flood of cases in which unions are demanding basic wage rate increases to keep take-home pay near the wartime level.

BRITISH EXPECT NEW AGREEMENT

man and Prime Minister Attlee in an attempt to break the foreign ministers' deadlock.

The dispatch said Stalin was likely to propose the big three meeting as result of a personal letter sent him by Mr. Truman supporting the American plan for a conference of all interested Allied parties on Balkan peace treaties.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will pledge Britain's support to the plan in commons tomorrow, the dispatch said, "and it is thought that Russia will agree—on conditions which will include a prior meeting of the big three."

The well-informed diplomatic correspondent of the Times said the United States and Britain decided to recognize the Austrian provisional government following its recent reorganization on broader party lines.

Austrian prime minister Dr. Karl Renner announced a week ago that steps were being taken to insure free elections in compliance with wishes of the western allies.

In this connection, removal of police and election supervision powers from the Communist interior minister in the Renner cabinet was expected to be approved by the United States and Britain.

The government put these controversial powers under a five-man commission consisting of two people's party members, a Social-Democrat and a Communist.

Dr. Renner's steps toward broadening the base of his government have been reported in full to the United States and Britain by their representatives on the allied control council for Austria.

In Bulgaria, the Zveno party of Premier Kimon Georgiev recommended yesterday after a two-day conference that the government communicated with the United States, Britain and Russia on political and economic problems in Bulgaria.

The announcement by the party, leading political unit in the coalition government, said that domestic and international problems could not be solved by one political party or class.

NAVY REVEALS ALL DETAILS OF FORMOSA RESCUE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Navy today disclosed full details of the rescue of 1200 Allied military personnel on Formosa by a small naval task force.

The rescue took place Sept. 6. Almost all the evacuees were ill, and one prisoner said that in another month there would have been very few left alive to rescue.

Soldiers, sailors and airmen of American, British, Dutch and Chinese services were taken to Manila by ships of a task unit which included the escort carriers Santee and Block Island and the destroyer escorts Ketchmer, Thomas J. Gary, Brister and French.

Planes from the santee landed at an airstrip near the prison camps with hospital corpsmen and supplies. Then planes from the two carriers escorted and guided the ships through uncharted mine fields up a short channel to dock "in the middle of town" at Kilun, a part with a pre-war population of 100,000.

15 PASSENGERS FROM MISHAP II SURVIVE CRASH

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The Mishap II, a former Japanese raiding Superfortress, let 15 of her 20 passengers and crew members parachute to safety before plunging into the Pacific ocean and exploding, survivors said today.

Homeward bound after 10 missions over Japan, the Mishap II developed engine trouble and crashed Saturday 465 miles off the California coast.

Fourteen of the survivors arrived here last night aboard the Coast Guard cutter USS Browns-ville. Also aboard the cutter was the body of one of the airmen. Another survivor and two more bodies arrive later today. Two persons still are missing.

ALLIES SPEED TRIALS OF AXIS WAR CRIMINALS

By United Press

United nations authorities moved today to speed prosecution of top-ranking Axis war criminals as trials of lesser figures proceeded before military tribunals.

Rudolf Hess, former deputy fuhrer who failed on a fantastic mission to England in 1941, was flown back to Germany where indictments were to be returned soon against him and 23 other top Nazis.

At Lueneburg, Germany, Josef Kramer, commandant of the Belzen camp, testified in his own defense before a British military court trying him and 44 other Nazis for atrocities.

Seven Germans went on trial before an American court at Wiesbaden, charged with the murder of 400 Russian and Polish slave laborers.

German Gen. Anton Dostler went on trial before an American court in Rome charged with executing 15 captured American officers of strategic services troops.

In Manila, Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita pleaded not guilty to the "rape of Manila." Trial was set for Oct. 29.

In Paris the treason trial of Pierre Laval resumed after deliberations on how to proceed after the defendant refused to return to court. It was decided to resume without the defendant, defense counsel or defense witnesses.

TRUMAN HEADS INTO TENNESSEE RIVER COUNTRY

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., Oct. 8.—President Truman headed into the river valley country of Tennessee today with an idea of harnessing the nation's water power into an overall national system of flood control, navigations aids and power production.

Mr. Truman's newest ideas on establishment of a system of regional authorities patterned after the Tennessee Valley Authority will be presented Wednesday when he dedicates the new Kentucky dam of the TVA system in a speech at Gilbertsville, Ky., at 11 a. m. (CST).

Meantime, the President will rest for two days at a Reelfoot lake (Tenn.) fishing camp owned by Mrs. Linda R. Morris of Memphis, widow of the former United States attorney for the Reelfoot Lake and Memphis area. He was scheduled to reach the rustic hide-away today.

Mr. Truman brought his week-end visit to southeast Missouri to a climactic finish yesterday when he appeared in a fervent county fair race track speech for a national and international "push" toward cooperation and understanding far surpassing anything that happened during the war.

U. S. COMMUNISTS ATTACK WORK OF MacARTHUR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—American Communists are conducting a campaign against Gen. Douglas MacArthur in support of Russia's desire to participate in the government of Japan.

The attack began last month in a series of articles in the Daily Worker, Communist organ published in New York. The paper implied that MacArthur was associated for gain with Fascist elements in the Philippines. The implications were that he had amassed a considerable fortune by those connections.

The campaign is continuing in the Communist press, bolstered by the recent announcement from Moscow that the Soviet Union considered MacArthur's direction of Japan's affairs to be "outmoded."

Communist objections to MacArthur fill out a pattern of friction between Washington and Moscow. The most spectacular evidence came during the London conference of foreign ministers which was a notable failure.

privilege of having command of the Third Army," he said.

Although removed from the Third Army command by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for being too slow in removing Nazis from office in his Bavarian occupation zone, Patton carefully avoided any mention of the circumstances surrounding his transfer.

Truscott, who formerly commanded the Fifth army in Italy and recently has been serving as Gen. Eisenhower's personal representative in Europe, briefly paid tribute to Patton as the man "who has written one of the greatest pages in military history."

Rain and hail forced the ceremony indoors. Four major generals, two brigadier generals and 22 colonels were on the plywood stage.

The 59-year old Patton, resplendent in polished riding boots, campaign ribbons and the four silver stars of his rank, declared that "all good things must come to an end."

He explained that he was referring to himself and not to the Third Army.

"You will find in Gen. Truscott every characteristic which will inspire in you the same loyalty and devotion you afforded me," Patton said.

He said the success of the Third Army, which eliminated 1,800,000 Germans from the war, was due primarily to the "fighting heart of America."

"Even American valor would not have sufficed," he said, without the coordinating and supply activities of the general and special staffs.

He ended his speech with a husky: "Good bye and God bless you."

DUKE, MOTHER TOUR LONDON'S BOMBED AREAS

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Duke of Windsor and his mother, dowager Queen Mary, toured heavily-bombed areas of London's east end yesterday.

They were cheered by several groups who recognized them.

The duke also accompanied the queen mother to a harvest thanksgiving service at St. Michael's church. There had been no advance notice of their attendance and few people saw them enter the church. While Queen Mary listened intently to the services and sang all the hymns, the duke fidgeted in his seat. He fingered his tie and removed and replaced his spectacles several times.

the court martial and execution in a Shanghai cemetery of three of the American fliers who participated in the famed "Doolittle" raid on Tokyo in April, 1942.

Though the identity of the four Japanese officers who presided at the trial of the Doolittle fliers is known, they were reported reliably to be still at large in the Shanghai area.

Lack of any American directive for procedure against war criminals in China wanted for crimes against Americans was blamed for the situation.

Investigation agencies which first turned up the records of the executions said they had no instructions on whether the apprehension of war criminals in the country of an ally was a military or state department matter.

level production of civilian goods. Lewis is demanding UMW recognition for 28,000 to 50,000 supervisory employees.

The operators, like the oil companies last week, have urged Schwellenbach to follow the WLB's wartime policy by insisting that strikers return to their jobs before discussing the merits of a dispute. The secretary disregarded the oil companies' request but said he would take a position after hearing both parties.

Lewis was believed relying on a recommendation by former secretary of labor Frances Perkins to win his fight with the coal operators. During 1945 wage negotiations he accepted her proposal that the issue of bargaining rights for supervisory mine employees be determined by the NLRB. The operators refused and Lewis dropped his demands. But four days after the contract was signed, he notified the producers that he would seek a determination of the issue by the NLRB.

A case involving the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. is now on the way through NLRB procedures but a decision is still several months off. Lewis is confident that the board's ruling last February—that foremen may organize and companies must deal with them—will be applied to his case.

Aside from coal, the NLRB also holds the answer to disputes which caused the Hollywood movie studio strike and the threatened strike in the telephone and California food processing industries.

Schwellenbach plans to persuade the WLB this week to make a wage dispute case in which the raise demanded would require price relief. He hopes that a quick decision may be forthcoming to provide guideposts for the flood of cases in which unions are demanding basic wage rate increases to keep take-home pay near the wartime level.

However, he was able to cite only two actual cases of punishment. NAVY REVEALS ALL DETAILS OF FORMOSA RESCUE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Navy today disclosed full details of the rescue of 1200 Allied military personnel on Formosa by a small naval task force.

The rescue took place Sept. 6. Almost all the evacuees were ill, and one prisoner said that in another month there would have been very few left alive to rescue.

Soldiers, sailors and airmen of American, British, Dutch and Chinese services were taken to Manila by ships of a task unit which included the escort carriers Santee and Block Island and the destroyer escorts Ketchmer, Thomas J. Gary, Brister and French.

Planes from the santee landed at an airstrip near the prison camps with hospital corpsmen and supplies. Then planes from the two carriers escorted and guided the ships through uncharted mine fields up a short channel to dock "in the middle of town" at Kilun, a part with a pre-war population of 100,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The Mishap II, a former Japanese raiding Superfortress, let 15 of her 20 passengers and crew members parachute to safety before plunging into the Pacific ocean and exploding, survivors said today.

Homeward bound after 10 missions over Japan, the Mishap II developed engine trouble and crashed Saturday 465 miles off the California coast.

Fourteen of the survivors arrived here last night aboard the Coast Guard cutter USS Brownsville. Also aboard the cutter was the body of one of the airmen. Another survivor and two more bodies arrive later today. Two persons still are missing.

ALLIES SPEED TRIALS OF AXIS WAR CRIMINALS

By United Press

United nations authorities moved today to speed prosecution of top-ranking Axis war criminals as trials of lesser figures proceeded before military tribunals.

Rudolf Hess, former deputy fuhrer who failed on a fantastic mission to England in 1941, was flown back to Germany where indictments were to be returned soon against him and 23 other top Nazis.

At Luebenburg, Germany, Josef Kramer, commandant of the Belzen camp, testified in his own defense before a British military court trying him and 44 other Nazis for atrocities.

Seven Germans went on trial before an American court at Wiesbaden, charged with the murder of 400 Russian and Polish slave laborers.

German Gen. Anton Dostler went on trial before an American court in Rome charged with executing 15 captured American officers of strategic services troops. In Manila, Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita pleaded not guilty to the "rape of Manila." Trial was set for Oct. 29.

In Paris the treason trial of Pierre Laval resumed after deliberations on how to proceed after the defendant refused to return to court. It was decided to resume without the defendant, defense counsel or defense witnesses.

TRUMAN HEADS INTO TENNESSEE RIVER COUNTRY

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., Oct. 8.—President Truman headed into the river valley country of Tennessee today with an idea of harnessing the nation's water power into an overall national system of flood control, navigations aids and power production.

Mr. Truman's newest ideas on establishment of a system of regional authorities patterned after the Tennessee Valley Authority will be presented Wednesday when he dedicates the new Kentucky dam of the TVA system in a speech at Gilbertsville, Ky., at 11 a. m. (CST).

Meantime, the President will rest for two days at a Reelfoot lake (Tenn.) fishing camp owned by Mrs. Linda R. Morris of Memphis, widow of the former United States attorney for the Reelfoot Lake and Memphis area. He was scheduled to reach the rustic hide-away today.

Mr. Truman brought his weekend visit to southeast Missouri to a climactic finish yesterday when he appealed in a fervent county fair race track speech for a national and international "push" toward cooperation and understanding far surpassing anything that happened during the war.

U. S. COMMUNISTS ATTACK WORK OF MacARTHUR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—American Communists are conducting a campaign against Gen. Douglas MacArthur in support of Russia's desire to participate in the government of Japan.

The attack began last month in a series of articles in the Daily Worker, Communist organ published in New York. The paper implied that MacArthur was associated for gain with Fascist elements in the Philippines. The implications were that he had amassed a considerable fortune by those connections.

The campaign is continuing in the Communist press, bolstered by the recent announcement from Moscow that the Soviet Union considered MacArthur's direction of Japan's affairs to be "outmoded." Communist objections to MacArthur fill out a pattern of friction between Washington and Moscow. The most spectacular evidence came during the London conference of foreign ministers which was a notable failure.

privilege of having command of the Third army," he said.

Although removed from the Third army command by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for being too slow in removing Nazis from office in his Bavarian occupation zone, Patton carefully avoided any mention of the circumstances surrounding his transfer.

Truscott, who formerly commanded the Fifth army in Italy and recently has been serving as Gen. Eisenhower's personal representative in Europe, briefly paid tribute to Patton as the man "who has written one of the greatest pages in military history."

Rain and hail forced the ceremony indoors. Four major generals, two brigadier generals and 22 colonels were on the plywood stage.

The 59-year old Patton, resplendent in polished riding boots, campaign ribbons and the four silver stars of his rank, declared that "all good things must come to an end."

He explained that he was referring to himself and not to the Third army.

"You will find in Gen. Truscott every characteristic which will inspire in you the same loyalty and devotion you afforded me," Patton said.

He said the success of the Third army, which eliminated 1,800,000 Germans from the war, was due primarily to the "fighting heart of America."

"Even American valor would not have sufficed," he said, without the coordinating and supply activities of the general and special staffs.

He ended his speech with a husky:

"Good bye and God bless you."

DUKE, MOTHER TOUR LONDON'S BOMBED AREAS

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Duke of Windsor and his mother, dowager Queen Mary, toured heavily-bombed areas of London's east end yesterday.

They were cheered by several groups who recognized them.

The duke also accompanied the queen mother to a harvest thanksgiving service at St. Michael's church. There had been no advance notice of their attendance and few people saw them enter the church. While Queen Mary listened intently to the services and sang all the hymns, the duke fidgeted in his seat. He fingered his tie and removed and replaced his spectacles several times.

the court martial and execution in a Shanghai cemetery of three of the American fliers who participated in the famed "Doolittle" raid on Tokyo in April, 1942.

Though the identity of the four Japanese officers who presided at the trial of the Doolittle fliers is known, they were reported reliably to be still at large in the Shanghai area.

Lack of any American directive for procedure against war criminals in China wanted for crimes against Americans was blamed for the situation.

Investigation agencies which first turned up the records of the executions said they had no instructions on whether the apprehension of war criminals in the country of an ally was a military or state department matter.

LOOKING AHEAD
FAR-sighted people, here and abroad, are beginning to worry a little about the easy assumption of so many Americans that this last war is over and there will never be another. It is a dangerous attitude, and any American old enough to remember and intelligent enough to understand should know better.

The present situation seems made to order for a repetition of what happened after the war we fought a quarter-century ago. We felt so secure and turned our backs on reality, thereby in the fulness of time giving the foreign war-mongers a glorious chance to repeat their folly—and our own. Most of our easy-going public (which includes ourselves—every man of us) fool around again, ignoring reality and envious competition until, in the fulness of time, we get into the same old trap of unpreparedness?

We do not have to remain armed to the teeth, always prepared to start fighting another war tomorrow morning. But surely we could and should maintain a reasonable degree of readiness, after the fix in which we've been caught these last couple of wars.

WARD RULE
A group of political leaders in a residential suburb recently admitted having made a mistake. This is as unusual outside of politics as inside. In this case the confession was public. The group had filed a petition to have the suburb vote on changing the town council from a body elected at large to one chosen by wards. The dismay of citizens who had studied the ward system elsewhere was brought to bear on the group, and succeeded in persuading them to withdraw their petition.

Ward-elected city councils are common in the United States. So is cancer. "The ward system," says Joseph P. Harris, author of "Election Administration in the United States," "is thoroughly discredited in this country. I know of no city in which it is working satisfactorily. It makes it impossible for the council member to avoid becoming a seeker of favors for the members of his ward instead of a person to pass upon the broad policies of the city government." A Minnesota governmental expert, Harold L. Henderson, adds: "The ward system of representation has been the curse of American cities for many decades."

The Japs are now reported as "rioting for rice." They should have thought of that before they started the fight.

Happy is the neighborhood whose most exciting news is the adoption, down the street, of a new cat.

We haven't been hearing so much lately about how much better German culture is than our own, but just give 'em time.

Byrnes will have the task of publicizing the United States abroad—taking over functions of the OWI foreign service—and keeping foreign intelligence work going—functions formerly performed by OSS. So far the search for personnel has not been very fruitful.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—A minor ado has appeared fragmentarily in the papers about a report of the special committee for reorganizing national defense which was completed last April, and has been lost under the massive table of the joint chiefs of staff since that time. You may have seen an editorial now and then inquiring what became of it.

I found it. It was in the street gutter around the corner from my office when I went home last night, and while the night was dark, somehow my eye did not miss it. It seemed to be phosphorescent.

On my copy there was no restriction against looking at it, and censorship is over anyway. I hurried back to the office to study this document so mysterious that the heavy minds of the war department had been sitting upon it for seven months—seven long months mind you—with a secrecy beyond ordinary secrecy.

I found out what had happened. This committee plan of defense which is to keep the peace of the world—if peace treaties can be made—had requested urgent action in reporting to the President their conclusions for a complete reorganization of the entire defense setup. I am told the report had the approval of the fighting generals and even fighting admirals—Eisenhower, MacArthur, Halsey, Nimitz.

Furthermore it says itself a great majority of field Army officers and half the Navy officers at the fighting fronts agreed on the basic recommendations. Indeed, the report itself is signed by one admiral and three Army officers, with only one dissenting voice, the voice of a retired admiral.

This, then is what the fighting leaders want, and what they want is a single defense department taking in the Army, Navy and Air Forces under single-headed control. It would be called the department of the armed forces.

The whole tone stressed the necessity for team work, closer cooperation, economy supplies and efficiency by coherent group action and true integration. It conceded duplication and some lack of mutual understanding as well as jealousies in past competition between the services.

It wanted a single cabinet officer. This would mean at least one of the existing Navy and Army cabinet men would have to go. Yet such a consideration hardly explained the filing of the report under a table in the war department because I know War Secretary Patterson is for it.

Of course it would also mean combining the War and Navy committees in congress and some congressmen would lose a good job also. A little inquiry disclosed the most powerfully placed, but not necessarily most numerous, opposition came from heads of the house and senate War and Navy committees. (They control appropriations.) A little further checking indicated Admiral King, the Navy director, also is against the idea. As near as I can find these combined forces were being awarded the chief inside credit, if you can call it that, for a skillful delaying action.

The report sets down what looks like a new streamlined organization with a good chance for efficiency if the men who operate it can keep it more on its toes than they were at Pearl Harbor.

Top man would be the President, commander-in-chief as now. Next in line would be the cabinet secretary of the armed forces, then the commander of the armed forces (a sort of chief of staff like General (Continued on Page Six)

SANDRA HAD hoped to shock Susy Adams, by stepping up to the booth where she sat with a cowboy. But there was no such satisfaction. The cowboy, however, seemed agitated, trying as he was to keep the red-haired girl and her partner from seeing the several hundred-dollar bills he was shoving into his wallet.
But Susy was as calm as if she were serving tea to an old maiden aunt. "Hello there!" She smiled, her usual congenial smile, so maddening to Sandra. "Dumpy and I were having a business transaction." She turned now to the cowboy, letting him see the bills. "You might as well get started, Dumpy." "Yes," he agreed. He got up and crowded awkwardly around the edge of the booth. "I'm pullin' freight."
Susy discouraged his explanation. "Goodbye, Dumpy." Dumpy understood. He shut his lips so tightly they all but disappeared and he moved away as swiftly as a cowpuncher can move in high-heeled boots, across a polished dance floor.
Sandra overtook him easily and kept beside him. "So you are the tattle-tale guy, Dumpy!" This little bantam-sized cowpuncher from the ranch adjoining the Mesquite; the one with whom she had eaten sandwiches and played pinball the night Gordon had met her at the gate and kissed her. No wonder Susy had been so well informed.
Dumpy turned and met Sandra's scathing look. He colored a bit, but not much. "A fellow has to live," he muttered defensively.
"Most cowpunchers ride after cattle. Or play the guitar and sing." "Or marry a girl with six million bucks. But I ain't got the looks of Gordon Adams. Nope, Miss Edwards, I ain't pretty. And I can't play no guitar and yodel. And cows and horses give me hay fever. So I just make my livin' in my own way."
He glanced back toward the booth. Susy Adams was watching them, but making no attempt to follow. Of course Bernie's fat body was across the end of the booth. That possibly had something to do with it, but mainly Susy did not consider it worth her time. She owned Dumpy; he would behave. Sandra also glanced back and felt the blond girl's contemptuous smile over her.
At the exit door Sandra put her hand on the cowpuncher's arm to detain him a moment longer. "So now you are off to find Mr. Adams? Is that right?"
"Yeh. And I will find him. It'll take time, but what do I care? The more time, the more expense money." He reddened again beneath Sandra's glare.
"You should be ashamed of yourself," she said helplessly.
His brazen manner had returned. "And you should have more money. Then you could outbid Mrs. Adams."

Recognizing Early Symptoms In Cancer of the Stomach

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

CANCER of the stomach is one of the deadliest of diseases if the disorder is neglected, but, with early treatment, patients can be saved and life prolonged. In the past, when a diagnosis was made, less than half of the patients could be operated on successfully and, of those who were operated on, a life-saving operation was possible in less than one out of every ten.

But this does not mean that the situation is a hopeless one for, with more suspicious attitude toward the condition, it would lead to an earlier diagnosis and many, many lives could be saved.

Three Ways
According to Doctor Robert J. McNeill Love of England, cancer of the stomach shows itself in one of three ways. First, it may develop in a perfectly healthy stomach. Secondly, it may arise as a complication of a stomach ulcer; and, third, the presence of a stomach cancer may be suggested by some condition in another part of the body.

Doctor Love believes that commonly the first evidence of stomach cancer is one of three conditions, namely, anorexia or loss of appetite, asthenia or loss of strength, or anemia, that is, a lessening of the coloring in the blood.

Dislike of Food
The dislike of food, although the patient may feel empty, is probably present in almost every case. The weakness is both physical and mental. The affected person shies away from any needless muscular effort and he loses interest in both his work and relaxation. This symptom may be closely related to the poor appetite, since lack of food naturally leads to physical and mental tiredness.

The anemia which develops may be so severe as to resemble some disorder affecting the blood-forming organs. As the stomach cancer continues, a great loss of weight occurs and vomiting develops.

Stomach Ulcers

The figures which indicate that cancer may develop when stomach ulcers are present, vary to a great extent. Some say that it happens in one out of ten cases; others as high as six out of ten. However, it is probable that in a certain proportion of simple ulcers of the stomach, cancer does develop. When this happens, the patient finds that the pain which formerly was occurring in attacks becomes almost continuous and that loss of appetite occurs.

Any person who shows any signs of digestive upsets, who has weakness, loss of appetite or anemia should have a careful study made, including X-rays of the stomach, to make sure that stomach cancer is not present.

Dumpy turned and met Sandra's scathing look. He colored a bit, but not much. "A fellow has to live," he muttered defensively.

"Most cowpunchers ride after cattle. Or play the guitar and sing."

"Or marry a girl with six million bucks. But I ain't got the looks of Gordon Adams. Nope, Miss Edwards, I ain't pretty. And I can't play no guitar and yodel. And cows and horses give me hay fever. So I just make my livin' in my own way."

He glanced back toward the booth. Susy Adams was watching them, but making no attempt to follow. Of course Bernie's fat body was across the end of the booth. That possibly had something to do with it, but mainly Susy did not consider it worth her time. She owned Dumpy; he would behave. Sandra also glanced back and felt the blond girl's contemptuous smile over her.

At the exit door Sandra put her hand on the cowpuncher's arm to detain him a moment longer. "So now you are off to find Mr. Adams? Is that right?"

"Yeh. And I will find him. It'll take time, but what do I care? The more time, the more expense money." He reddened again beneath Sandra's glare.

"You should be ashamed of yourself," she said helplessly.

His brazen manner had returned. "And you should have more money. Then you could outbid Mrs. Adams."

So long? He swaggered out the door.

A horrible sensation of futility settled over Sandra. There didn't seem to be anything she could do to better her own predicament. These people, she noted with abhorrence, were as cut-throat in their methods as rival designers in Wakeman-Benet.

Bernie rolled over to meet her, as she came back toward Susy's booth. "Let's not go back there," he suggested. "I think our work is done so far as she is concerned. She said she wished you'd get out of her hair. So I told her you intended to leave and she was delighted. So let's leave her to her delight." They were at the refreshment counter now. "Beers," he ordered.

When they were put before them, in tall glasses, Bernie lifted his in a salute. "Here's to a new address, Sandra." They drank.

"I'm surprised that she wants me to leave," the girl said. "I supposed she'd like me to stick around so she could poke her finger into my eye at regular intervals."

"The person whose eye she'd really like to poke is Gordon. You, like Belinda, are simply a minor nuisance that she prefers not to have to look at, while she sits around and waits. And she will wait, Sandra. She has the patience of Job in some ways." He patted his companion's arm. "Of course I know you are waiting also, Sandra, but get your mind on something besides Gordon Adams, while you are waiting."

Although she had assurance that Susy wanted her to leave the Mesquite, Sandra did not tell anyone—except Brody—where she was going. To others she said she intended to spend some time in La Madera.

She did spend two days there. Then she and Spenser boarded a train for Los Angeles, installed themselves in an apartment hotel, and the following week-end, when she could get away from school, met Belinda downtown for lunch.

They lunched in a restaurant where soft organ music made a background for, not a threat against, conversation. The reunion was as exciting as if they had been separated for months, instead of days. Belinda and Spenser made good disappear as if they were magicians. Fruit cocktail, roast lamb, green peas and whipped potatoes, orange and avocado salad, marshmallow sundae and milk.

"In Mr. Birch's drug store," said Belinda. "I always take the paper out of the sundae and lick it."

"But there is no paper in this sundae dish," Spenser, intent on scraping the bottom of the silver dish, did not even glance up. "Of course, at Mr. Birch's drug store I always ordered two of whatever I was having."

Sandra let his wistful tone ring in the air for several seconds, until he did look up, in fact. "I heard you," she said then. "Do you think you and Belinda could eat another sundae?"

"I think we might have a dash at it, don't you, Belinda?"

"Sure. Choose the time. You know, school is great, but we don't get sauce on our ice cream. So far anyway. Just plain ice cream."

"It's probably just as well, if you're going to feast this way every time you get out," observed Sandra.

At the same time she distributed her mild chastisement, she was thinking: This is pretty wonderful. My having the love of these two fine youngsters. It is especially wonderful because neither cared anything about me at first.

Glutted with food, Spenser finally sank back against the cushioned wall. "You know," he said lazily, "if we had a house instead of an apartment we could have tea with us. And sometimes we could have Belinda spend the night with us."

"But supposing we shouldn't stay long enough to take a lease on a house?"

"Not stay?" The English boy's tone was bewildered. "But we have to stay here, dash it all, so long as Belinda is in school. When she goes back to the Mesquite we'll toddle along and when she comes back to school we'll go back to our house." His face cleared, now that he had solved everything. "It's extremely simple. Really it is."

"There is only one drawback. It sounds like a great deal of money." Spenser was still more bewildered now. "Does that make much difference, Sandra?"

"It makes enough that I may have to go back to work."

"The doctor said no."

"He said no to my bringing you along, too, Spenser, and I hardly think we can complain about the way things turned out."

"I wasn't sick."

Sandra reminded with a slight smile: "I thought you had a stomach ache."

"Oh, that!" Spenser blushed. "Sandra, you must not go back to work. Not until you are well rested."

"The little girl now came out of her stupor, caused by her abundant lunch. 'You must never worry about money, Red. You know what a batch of it I have and I'm spending it now that I know it's from my grandfather instead of her.'"

"They'll be impatient with me if I cry, Sandra cautioned herself. She simply patted Belinda's shoulder. "Thank you, dear." She was so touched by the girl's quixotic gesture that Spenser's sudden pugnaciousness shocked her.

"I'll look after Sandra," he belatedly.

"How?" quizzed Belinda. "The only dough you have is the allowance Sandra gives you."

"When I go to work at Superior Studios. That's how."

"And what makes you so sure you'll be the one chosen to go to work at Superior Studios?"

HAND CARE FOR WORKING WOMEN

Hand care is fifty per cent protection. Grime takes a terrible toll as the Victory gardener found to her dismay when she was doing her digging and reaping. Finger nails without luster, cuticle creeping up on them, some nails broken, darn it!

The boss of the domestic works needs to give hands and talons daily care. They are in and out of hot water many times a day. Soap removes the natural oil that keeps the skin surface smooth. Mrs. Lazy Bones who does nothing at all in the way of hard labor has no worry about her paws. She takes them to the beauty once a week, has her nails groomed, then forgets all about them.

Housekeeper's Nails

But when one juggles pots and pans, scrubs window sills, cleans the kitchen stove, that, my hearties, is something else again. One's hands look capable, if that is any comfort, and it should be.

If your hands are in a deplorable condition, then add cornmeal to the soap suds when you wash them. The tiny grains will dig out dark lines in the knuckles, the starch content will have a favorable effect upon the flesh. Before the washing, plunge the finger tips in a cut lemon. The juice will make the nail eaves as white as snow.

Lift the cuticle with the orange wood stick while it is soft and pliable after the washing. Do not press down at the nail bases. Apply the rosy-tinted polish only after nails are in good shape.

Hand Lotions

Keep faith with one of those milky, semi-liquid hand lotions; use several times a day. Have a bottle in every bath room, and in the kitchen. Place them so you will see them; they will remind you that if you are kind to your hands, they will be kind to you.

Once or twice a week have an oily friction, using lanolin.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kibler and daughter, Nancy, Lakewood, were weekend guests of Mrs. Mary Kibler, East Main street.

Librarians Meet At The Rock House

A picnic and business meeting of the South East district of the Ohio Library association was held at the Rock House, Sunday. Mrs. Enid Denham and Miss Jessie Cummings of the local library force were in attendance.

About twenty-five persons connected with libraries in Chillicothe, Newark, Kingston and Columbus attended the meeting at which Mr. Brahm, State librarian was in charge.

November 18 will be the date of the next meeting which will be held at the home of Miss Susanna Titus, Chillicothe. A covered dish supper will feature this meeting.

Birthday Dinner

Mrs. John Huston of near Mt. Sterling was honored at a surprise dinner, Sunday, at her home on her 73rd birthday anniversary.

She received many useful gifts. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. George Timmons, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Timmons, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Timmons and family, Mrs. Marvin Timmons and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Timmons, Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Brown, and grandson, Dickie, East High street.

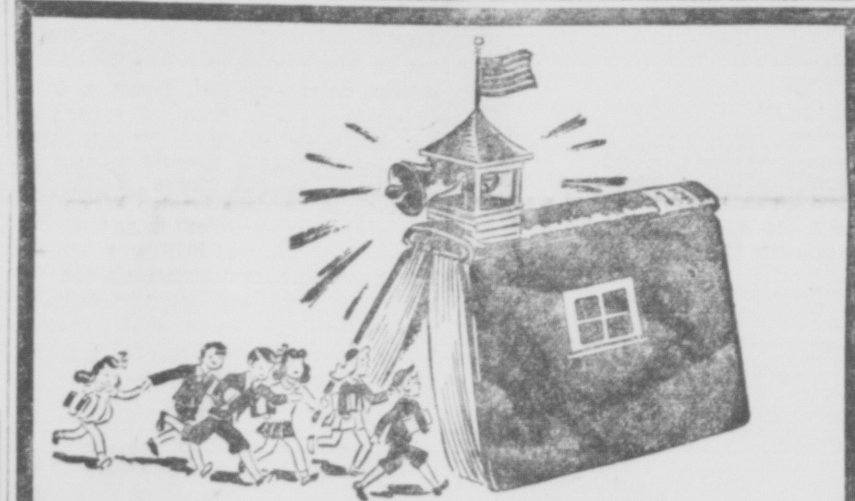

Party Planned Tuesday

A halloween party will be held for the members of the local Order of Eastern Star at the regular meeting of that organization, Tuesday evening in the Masonic Temple.

Chairmen for the meeting is Mrs. Roy Beatty and Mrs. L. H. Mebs. Mrs. Cecil Noecker and Mrs. Carl Bennett are members of the entertainment committee.

S/Sgt. Cecil H. Scott, Altoona, Pa., who was recently discharged from service was a guest over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Root and daughter, Mary Ellen, South Pickaway street.

SPECIAL WEEK IS PLANNED BY BPW MEMBERS

Using as their theme "Jobs Enough to Go Around" the Business and Professional Women's club have designated the week of October 7 to 13 as National Business Women's week with clubs all over the country participating.

The local club whose regular meeting night would fall on October 11 have made arrangements for the members to join with the Columbus club members in the observance of the week. A dinner meeting will be held at the Southern Hotel with a member of the National executive board as a speaker.

Because the national president, Miss Margaret Hickey, St. Louis could not address each club individually during the week she sends the following message:

This country which can use its full resources so effectively in the winning of the greatest war in history as has been so strikingly demonstrated, can and must continue to use these same resources in the winning of the peace.

The making of the peace will create emergencies just as critical as those of the war. We have been successful to such a marked degree in war precisely because we were able to muster and coordinate the full resources of the nation. And if we are successful in building the peace it will be for just about the same reason. It is to be hoped that the same far-

sightedness which carried us to victory on the battlefields of Europe and made possible our victories over the enemy in the Pacific, may be counted upon as a primary force in bringing us to a peace worthy of the struggles we have made.

Must Be No Idleness

The stupendous task ahead, if rightly directed, will require the efforts of all. During the war many of our homefront needs necessarily have been neglected. If we are to complete all the unfinished business in this country and undertake all our long-delayed new business, there can be no legitimate idleness on the part of anyone able to work.

Production, employment and consumption are so interdependent that when one falls short, all must suffer. Full production should result in a flow of goods great enough to provide full employment. But in order to maintain a balanced economy—between full production, full employment and full consumption—plans must be wisely and far-sightedly developed, and skillfully executed. It is needless for industry to expand its markets to accommodate people who are unemployed and cannot buy the goods produced.

High Living Standards

Our primary national goals are enough jobs for all and the maintenance of high standards of living for all our people. To accomplish these we must extend our foreign trade, expand our productivity, and increase our home consumption. These objectives can be achieved only through good wages for workers, sound prices for farmers, fair profits for business, and reduced unit costs for the consumer.

It is highly important that the best talent and experience available be marshalled to direct the application of the economic principles required to achieve enough jobs for all.

The continuance of the wartime partnership of management, labor and community groups can be of vast assistance in the solution of our peacetime problems. There can be no peace where there is want or frustration. The best security against want is the assurance of a regular pay check. And the best security against frustration is satisfactory employment. Theories are necessary, but they lose much of their significance unless they are put into practice. Principles are essential, but to be effective they must be applied.

For a decade within our memory unemployed millions were forced to retreat in humiliation from their once proud belief that America was the land of opportunity. Let us hope that never again will this be true. Let us believe in America as never before. But let us remember also that mere belief is not enough. Let us have the dynamic faith in America that stimulates us to action great enough to prove once again that America is the land of opportunity for all our people.

In observance of National Business Women's Week, Mayor Ben H. Gordon has issued the following proclamation.

Whereas, the week of October 7 to October 13, 1945, has been designated for the seventeenth year as "National Business Women's Week" with theme of "Jobs Enough to Go Around"; and

and frank discussion in communities among their membership as to the part to be played by the women's groups in the peacetime needs of business life; and

Whereas, such program is a worthwhile civic enterprise in the life of the state and communities in fostering more amicable relations between employers and employees in the world now building.

Now, Therefore, I, Ben H. Gordon, Mayor of Circleville, Ohio do hereby proclaim the week of October 7 to October 13, 1945, as "National Business Women's Week".

Help Increase Supplies of Soap and Other Peacetime Products By Saving More Used Fats

Industrial fats far short of last year! We are almost down to the bottom of the barrel. The nation's industrial fat supply is millions of pounds less than it was in 1944. We need fully as much as last year to help make the soaps and other civilian goods you want and need so badly. So . . .

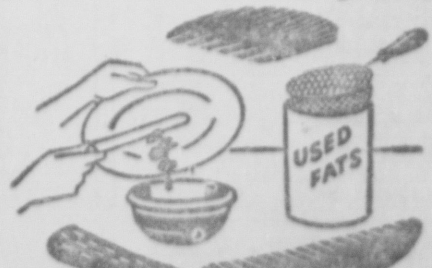

If you want more soap and soap flakes . . . if you're dreaming of nylons, sheets, cotton fabrics and want them to hurry back to the store counter . . . you can help by saving those used kitchen fats as you never saved before! Save every drop, every day!

These fats are vitally necessary to help speed greater supplies of soaps and hundreds of other things—like new cars, electric washers, irons, refrigerators and tires. Industry must have these fats . . . to help get to you more quickly the peacetime products you've been longing to have for years!

So skim and scrape and scoop just as you did so faithfully before V-J Day. It is a peacetime job now—a job that will help you. And to prove how important it is, your government has increased the point bonus. So help meet this nation's need by continuing to save used fats.

SPECIAL WEEK IS PLANNED BY BPW MEMBERS

Using as their theme "Jobs Enough to Go Around" the Business and Professional Women's club have designated the week of October 7 to 13 as National Business Women's week with clubs all over the country participating.

The local club whose regular meeting night would fall on October 11 have made arrangements for the members to join with the Columbus club members in the observance of the week. A dinner meeting will be held at the Southern Hotel with a member of the National executive board as a speaker.

Because the national president, Miss Margaret Hickey, St. Louis could not address each club individually during the week she sends the following message: This country which can use its full resources so effectively in the winning of the greatest war in history has been so strikingly demonstrated, can and must continue to use these same resources in the winning of the peace.

The making of the peace will create emergencies just as critical as those of the war. We have been successful to such a marked degree in war precisely because we were able to muster and coordinate the full resources of the nation. And if we are successful in building the peace it will be for just about the same reason. It is to be hoped that the same far-

sightedness which carried us to victory on the battlefields of Europe and made possible our victories over the enemy in the Pacific, may be counted upon as a primary force in bringing us to a peace worthy of the struggles we have made.

Must Be No Idleness

The stupendous task ahead, if rightly directed, will require the efforts of all. During the war many of our homefront needs necessarily have been neglected. If we are to complete all the unfinished business in this country and undertake all our long-delayed new business, there can be no legitimate idleness on the part of anyone able to work.

Production, employment and consumption are so interdependent that when one falls short, all must suffer. Full production should result in a flow of goods great enough to provide full employment. But in order to maintain a balanced economy—between full production, full employment and full consumption—plans must be wisely and far-sightedly developed, and skillfully executed. It is needless for industry to expand its markets to accommodate people who are unemployed and cannot buy the goods produced.

High Living Standards

Our primary national goals are enough jobs for all and the maintenance of high standards of living for all our people. To accomplish them we must extend our foreign trade, expand our productivity, and increase our home consumption. These objectives can be achieved only through good wages for workers, sound prices for farmers, fair profits for business, and reduced unit costs for the consumer.

It is highly important that the best talent and experience available be marshalled to direct the application of the economic principles required to achieve enough jobs for all.

The continuance of the wartime partnership of management, labor and community groups can be of vast assistance in the solution of our peacetime problems. There can be no peace where there is want or frustration. The best security against want is the assurance of a regular pay check. And the best security against frustration is satisfactory employment. Theories are necessary, but they lose much of their significance unless they are put into practice. Principles are essential, but to be effective they must be applied.

For a decade within our memory unemployed millions were forced to retreat in humiliation from their once proud belief that America was the land of opportunity. Let us hope that never again will this be true. Let us believe in America as never before. But let us remember also that mere belief is not enough. Let us have the dynamic faith in America that stimulates us to action great enough to prove once again that America is the land of opportunity for all our people.

In observance of National Business Women's Week, Mayor Ben H. Gordon has issued the following proclamation.

Whereas, the week of October 7 to October 13, 1945, has been designated for the seventeenth year as "National Business Women's Week" with theme of "Jobs Enough to Go Round"; and

Whereas, the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs are stimulating open-

and frank discussion in communities among their membership as to the part to be played by the women's groups in the peacetime needs of business life; and

Whereas, such program is a worthwhile civic enterprise in the life of the state and communities in fostering more amicable relations between employers and employees in the world now building.

Now, Therefore, I, Ben H. Gordon, Mayor of Circleville, Ohio do hereby proclaim the week of October 7 to October 13, 1945, as "National Business Women's Week".

BLOOD-IRON?

Here's One Of The Best Home Ways
To Build Up RED BLOOD!

You girls who suffer from simple anemia or who lose so much during monthly periods that you are pale, feel tired, weak, "dragged out"—this may be due to low blood-iron.

So start today—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets—one of the greatest blood-iron tonics you can buy to help build up red blood to give more strength and energy—in such cases.

Taken as directed—Pinkham's Tablets are one of the very best home ways to get precious iron into the blood. They help build up the red quality of the blood by reinforcing the haemoglobin of red blood cells.

Just try Pinkham's Tablets for 30 days—then see if you, too, don't remarkably benefit. Follow label directions.

Now 4 POINTS FOR USED FATS

Help Increase Supplies of Soap and Other Peacetime Products By Saving More Used Fats

Industrial fats far short of last year! We are almost down to the bottom of the barrel. The nation's industrial fat supply is millions of pounds less than it was in 1944. We need fully as much as last year to help make the soaps and other civilian goods you want and need so badly. So...

If you want more soap and soap flakes... if you're dreaming of nylons, sheets, cotton fabrics and want them to hurry back to the store counter... you can help by saving those used kitchen fats as you never saved before! Save every drop, every day!

These fats are vitally necessary to help speed greater supplies of soaps and hundreds of other things—like new cars, electric washers, irons, refrigerators and tires. Industry must have these fats... to help get to you more quickly the peacetime products you've been longing to have for years!

So skim and scrape and scoop just as you did so faithfully before V-J Day. It is a peacetime job now—a job that will help you. And to prove how important it is, your government has increased the point bonus. So help meet this nation's need by continuing to save used fats.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Marshall, and finally the commanders of Army, Navy and Air on an equal footing to operate the divisions under them.

Thus the Air Force, made up mostly of the younger general officers who know most thoroughly the revolutionary science of modern warfare, would attain equal ranking with Army and Navy, at long last, in one single armed force. Their minds are less bound by tradition than the others and therefore they seem best fitted to take at least an equal footing with the others in maintaining our interests in the boundless new concepts of security.

Down below this top realignment, the Navy and War departments would operate about as present with duplicating bureaus combined and some other minor changes.

Well who can find fault with this? What objection could there be? The minority report of the single retired admiral actually agrees the plan is better than any proposed. He himself recommends placing the War and Navy departments under a single head but continuing the independent setups otherwise as they are. He does not say there would not be greater efficiency in a single department but he just is far from convinced there would be. He sees danger in one man having so much power at the top (a President runs the bigger job of the country without danger) and he suspects there will be practical difficulties of functioning at the bottom (which no doubt there will be at first as the combination will require months of paper work.) The objections therefore are light.

I wiped the dust from the copy I found (strangely it had cobwebs on it also) and wondered what I ought to do with it. I am a conscientious man. Should I return it to the War department and ask permission to perhaps mention it to you? I decided to do half of that. I went to the War department with it, found the massive table of the combined chiefs of staff and I got out my match box, and I took the report, and I started a fire under the table. I hope they find it hot.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Marshall, and finally the commanders of Army, Navy and Air on an equal footing to operate the divisions under them.

Thus the Air Force, made up mostly of the younger general officers who know most thoroughly the revolutionary science of modern warfare, would attain equal ranking with Army and Navy, at long last, in one single armed force. Their minds are less bound by tradition than the others and therefore they seem best fitted to take at least an equal footing with the others in maintaining our interests in the boundless new concepts of security.

Down below this top realignment, the Navy and War departments would operate about as present with duplicating bureaus combined and some other minor changes.

Well who can find fault with this? What objection could there be? The minority report of the single retired admiral actually agrees the plan is better than any proposed. He himself recommends placing the War and Navy departments under a single head but continuing the independent setups otherwise as they are. He does not say there would be greater efficiency in a single department but he just is far from convinced there would be. He sees danger in one man having so much power at the top (a President runs the bigger job of the country without danger) and he suspects there will be practical difficulties of functioning at the bottom (which no doubt there will be at first as the combination will require months of paper work.) The objections therefore are light.

I wiped the dust from the copy I found (strangely it had cobwebs on it also) and wondered what I ought to do with it. I am a conscientious man. Should I return it to the War department and ask permission to perhaps mention it to you? I decided to do half of that. I went to the War department with it, found the massive table of the combined chiefs of staff and I got out my match box, and I took the report, and I started a fire under the table. I hope they find it hot.

ARMY AND NAVY PACE GRIDDERS

Ohio State, Minnesota, Irish Also Among Nation's Football Leaders

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—Army and Navy rode high in the football firmament today but before their meeting for "the national championship" both must reckon with an old rival given little notice in the pre-season ratings—the re-surgant Irish of Notre Dame.

By plastering Georgia Tech 40 to 7, Hugh Devore's surprising Irish joined the select company of national leaders that also includes Southern California in the West, Ohio State and Minnesota in the Midwest and Alabama in the deep South.

Navy, vastly superior to the 1944 Middle eleven at this stage of the game, humbled a strong Duke team, 21 to 0, and should roll on over Penn State this week despite the latter's trouncing of Colgate, 27 to 7. Army buried Wake Forest, 54 to 0, and more of the same apparently is in store for Michigan Saturday.

Michigan showed class in defeating Northwestern, 20 to 7, last week and may make an exciting game of it against the Cadets.

Notre Dame, which plays Navy Nov. 3 and Army the next week, will work up to its big tests gradually, meeting Dartmouth (loser to Pennsylvania 12 to 0) this week and Pittsburgh and Iowa on the following Saturdays.

In the East, Columbia has come up with its best team in many seasons and the Lions romped over Syracuse, 32 to 0, last week, making them a good bet against Yale this Saturday. Yale bowed to improving Holy Cross, 21 to 0, while in other eastern games Lafayette tied Princeton, 7 to 7, and Cornell tripped the New London submarine base. Cornell and Princeton meet this week.

In the South, Alabama rose head and shoulders over the field with its convincing 26 to 7 triumph over Louisiana State. "Bama" should find easy going against weak South Carolina in its next tilt. Other southern games saw Mississippi State beating Auburn, 20 to 0, and Georgia just getting by Miami, four touchdowns to three. This week Mississippi State meets Detroit, Louisiana State plays Texas A. & M., Georgia Tech takes on Howard and Duke tackles Wake Forest.

After battering down Iowa 42 to 0, Ohio State meets Wisconsin in the Big Ten while Indiana is matched with Nebraska and Michigan State with Pittsburgh in other games involving Midwest teams. Last Saturday Purdue trimmed Wisconsin, 13 to 7, Indiana defeated Illinois, 6 to 0, Michigan State beat Kentucky, 7 to 6, and Minnesota snowed under Nebraska, 61 to 0.

It seems that Lord Haw Haw succeeded in convincing that British court he was born in Brooklyn—despite the fact that no one ever heard him root for the Dodgers.

Out of some 4,900 contestants who have appeared before the "Truth or Consequences" microphone, only two have ever refused to "take the consequences." The first recalcitrant was an avid Brooklyn Dodger fan who just couldn't bring himself to talk against his beloved team about three years ago. The second—and only balking contestant—was Miss Pearl Freed who appeared on the program two weeks ago. Miss Freed refused to take what she thought was an airplane ride, but which actually would have been on a ride on stage in a Link trainer. But Ralph Edwards aims to keep his contestants happy. The Dodger fan got his prize tickets to the ball game despite his lack of cooperation. And Miss Freed, who

33rd Observance of History Day Held At Logan Elm

HUGH JENKINS IS SPEAKER AT FAMED ELM TREE

John Carlisle Tells About History Of Tree, Work Of Ohio Association

Pointing to historic Logan Elm, John F. Carlisle, vice president of the Ohio History Association, talking to the persons gathered at Logan Elm Park Sunday for the 33rd observance of the day, said that it was the oldest living thing this side of the Mississippi river.

Mr. Carlisle stated that there was authentic proof that the tree had been living over 500 years although it is now affected with the dread elm disease that is destroying many trees in this section of the country. He said that the historic Washington Elm in Cambridge, Mass., had been dead many years.

This tree, Mr. Carlisle said, has been preserved through the efforts of the History Day association for the past 33 years and that previous to that time the family of the late John Boggs had done much toward preserving it.

He paid tribute to Doctor Howard Jones and Mrs. Jones who have been directly responsible for the institution of Ohio History Day. He also stated that this is the first celebration of the day that Dr. Jones has been unable to attend.

Mrs. Jones was present however and spoke a few words to the audience and urged them all to instill into the youth of our country a love of local history. She said this particular part of the country is replete with interesting history and it is her wish that more school children will be in attendance at another celebration as she said it is particularly for them that this day has been instituted.

Mr. Carlisle introduced the speaker of the day, Hugh Jenkins, attorney general of Ohio, who likened the Indian wars particularly the one that was being fought at the time Chief Logan sent his now famous message to Lord Dunmore, to the present World War 2.

Avarice and greed of the Virginians prompted their desire to annihilate the Indians just as the lust for power and the greedy desire for future expansion of power prompted the Germans and Japanese to wage war against the rest of the world. No parallel can be drawn however of the outcome as of the two distinct conflicts, the Indians who had lived a full life and had cooperated in many respects with the white settlers were forced to abandon their country and became sadly disillusioned people.

For a permanent peace Mr. Jenkins says we must have a more unified United States. We must be able to eliminate the selfishness and greed which are the constant source of unrest and discord in our lives just as they constituted the major difficulty in the time of Chief Logan.

Mr. Jenkins concluded his talk by reminding his listeners that it would be well for them to think of how the state and national governments as well as the local government ties in with their daily lives. There is hardly a moment of the day that our lives are not affected by some phase of our government. He urged his listeners to study our form of government and said it should be of prime importance to each of us.

At the conclusion of the talk Mr. Carlisle introduced David E. Crouse, Kingston, president of the Ohio History Day association, who spoke a few words to the assemblage and then told that Mrs. Howard Jones and Mr. Crouse were both celebrating their birthday anniversaries on this day.

The meeting was closed by the entire audience singing "America."

UNION SERVICE SERIES ENDS

Foster C. Jones Speaker At Final Program In Memorial Hall

"Unconditional surrender to God is necessary," Foster C. Jones, Warsaw, Indiana, evangelist, told a large audience at the closing service of a series of seven union church programs sponsored by the Circleville Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Jones Sunday night told the crowd which almost filled Memorial Hall that three things were necessary to be a good Christian: knowledge, power of spirit, love. He said that a study of the Bible would give us knowledge about religion. "To be a success as a Christian we must gain knowledge of God," Mr. Jones declared. Power of spirit is necessary.

The churches may differ on technicalities but all have the same cardinal principles, he said. United they can accomplish much. He declared that we need more love in our homes, community and church. "Love is the only unconquerable force on earth," he declared.

The final service in the series opened with two hymns, "Holy, Holy, Holy" and "The Church's One Foundation." Two numbers were presented by the union choir, "Lo, A Voice to Heaven Sounding," directed by Carl Leist and "Open Our Eyes," directed by the Rev. Carl L. Kennedy. Following the offering the choir sang "Speak Low To Me, My Savior" and "Gloria," both directed by Mr. Leist.

Dr. W. L. Sprouse expressed the appreciation of the club to Mr. Leist, members of the choir, Mrs.

Karl Herrman, accompanist, and all others who helped make the services a success, and introduced the speaker.

The meeting closed with the singing of the hymn "Beautiful Savior." The choir sang the first verse, Mr. Jones the second and the congregation joined in the last verse. Then the benediction was pronounced by Mr. Jones.

At noon Mr. Jones, ministers who have participated in the services, Roscoe Warren, chairman of committee in charge, and officers of Kiwanis club attended a dinner at Mrs. Marion's Party home.

Yep. We had it figured out. We'd keep on buying bonds; keep on saving. And at the maturity of those bonds, we'd have had it all—and more. Four dollars for every three when our "E" bonds matured!

And then—my own radio repair place! Had lots of ideas. It would have been a big success, too...

Not quite enough gumption, I suppose, back in 1945. I sloughed off on my bond buying.
